

Driving Ireland's franchise network countrywide

John Lynch, Countrywide Signs Master Franchise Owner for the Republic of Ireland and Northern Ireland, is working to secure the companies market leading status by landing national contracts to drive the network forwards.

"Countrywide Signs are the clear market leaders in Ireland, the systems are so advanced compared with what the competition are offering both customers and franchise owners. I work closely with the UK Management Team bringing the tested and proven developments back home for the benefit of the network over here. Our superior systems and cost effective service is very attractive and has resulted in an increase in national contracts strengthening our position. I want to grow our network and secure the market."

John Lynch – Master Franchise Owner
Republic of Ireland & Northern Ireland

"I would say to anyone thinking of becoming a franchise owner this is a fantastic business which gives you time to enjoy life. If you are already a franchise owner and looking at further options becoming a master takes everything to the next level. You still have the excellent systems and support of the UK Management Team just with the advantage of being able to work on growing your own network in your country/region."

John previously ran his own photographic distribution business in Ireland. He happened to know Simon Smith (Countrywide Signs UK National Sales Manager), who at that time was a UK based photographic business agent. Simon invested in his own Countrywide Signs franchise back in 2003 and after 6 months John did the same taking his territory in the Midlands of Ireland. He moved to take on the Master and lead the national network in 2009.

John is married and has three boys 11, 14 and 16. Unlike most small business owners John has found that the excellent CWS business systems allow him plenty of flexibility and leisure time to enjoy his main hobby, golf.

John is in for the long-term. He enjoys the business development side of being a Master Franchise Owner and is determined to continue growing the network and ensure Countrywide Signs remains the dominant service provider in Ireland and Northern Ireland.

He plans new developments for the Irish market, so check back soon to see how he progresses...
